Order Form & Measurement Instructions - for Tracking Harnesses - Flyball Harnesses

A snug fit, which does not restrict an active dog's natural movement, is most important when selecting a Specialist Harness for your dog. From Black Dog you get a harness that is strong, robust and designed specifically for your activity. Your dog gets a harness that fits comfortably and allows full mobility. Each harness has adjustment in the girth, and the load bearing straps are fixed, to maximize strength.

Measuring for a Harness.
It is important that your dog is measured accurately - to ensure the best fit - but measuring is not difficult and in most cases we can fit a Harness well from a Girth Measurement. Follow the instructions outlined below. Measurements should be done firmly around your dog. For all but the smallest or largest of dogs, we can successfully fit a sport harness from the Girth Measurement (Measurement A).

These Harnesses can also be ordered online at www.blackdog.net.au

Measuring for a Harness

A = ... cm (Girth Measurement)
All the way around the rib cage of the dog - Start at the dog's back, start at the spine, down under the chest just behind the front legs and back up to the spine.

B = ... cm (Only required for Very Small, or Very Large dogs)
Across the front of the chest, From just behind the Front Leg (the arm pit) around the front of the chest to the Arm Pit on the other side. Try to keep this at the middle of the chest, between the throat and where the legs join the body.

C = ... cm (Only required for Very Small, or Very Large dogs)
Over the Shoulders - Start just above the Arm Pit, measure up and over the back and finish just above the Arm Pit on the other side (see diagram at right)
